JOHN FRANCIS, PhD

John Francis, PhD, is known the world over as the Planetwalker. Several months after witnessing an oil spill in the San Francisco Bay in 1971, Francis stopped using motorized vehicles and shortly thereafter took a vow of silence. His non-motorized lifestyle lasted 22 years and his silence 17. During that time, Francis walked across the United States, earning a B.A. at Southern Oregon State College, an M.S. in environmental studies at the University of Montana, and a Ph.D. from the Nelson Institute Land Resources program at the University of Wisconsin—Madison (UW-M). Then, he wrote oil spill regulations for the U.S. Coast Guard, returning to travel a year later; he sailed and walked through the Caribbean and the length of South America as a goodwill ambassador to the World's Grassroots Communities for the United Nations Environment Program.

Since 2011, Francis has served as a visiting associate professor of environmental studies at UW-M. A local government commissioner, Francis ran for US Congress in 2020. He is currently an ethics adviser for STAR-TIDES (Sharing To Accelerate Research – Transformative Innovation for Development and Emergency Support), a global knowledge-sharing network focused on building sustainable resilience in response to natural and man-made disasters. He is also an education fellow at the National Geographic Society and the author of Planetwalker and The Ragged Edge of Silence: Finding Peace in a Noisy World. Speaking internationally on sustainability and environmental justice, his illustrated children's book Human Kindness: True Stories of Compassion and Generosity will be published in September 2022.

The Dominican Ideals

Study - Development of the human intellect based on seeking truth with the goal of sharing knowledge with others.

Reflection - Knowledge of self and greater understanding through the study of one's place in the world.

Community - Development of one's role as an active, contributing member in the world-at-large.

Service - Responding to the needs of others locally and globally.
